Son 'died trying to save woman'

Accident verdict: Mark Porter who died after going for a midnight swim.

THE parents of a pub chef who drowned while on holiday in Spain believe he was trying to save the life of a young woman who also died.

The bodies of Mark Porter, 29, from Haverhill, and Michelle Clydesdale, 24, who lived in Scotland, were washed up at Salou where they had gone for a midnight swim with friends.

A verdict of accidental death was recorded by Suffolk coroner Dr Peter Dean at the inquest on Mr Porter, who worked at the Bell pub in High Street, Haverhill and lived in Haverhill Road, Little Wratting.

After the hearing, in Bury St Edmunds, Mr Porter's mother, Polly said she was relieved that evidence showed he was not drunk.

In a joint statement with her husband, Bill, she said: "He gave his life trying to help save Michelle. Sadly they both died.

"Four young men went on holiday 11 months ago and only three came home. These three together with my husband and I now need to find a way to go forward with our lives.

"We would ask everyone to remember Mark for the amazing person he was - grandson, god father, true friend and most of all a much-loved son who has left a massive hole in our hearts and lives."

Dr Dean said a toxicology test showed that Mr Porter had 59 milligrams of alcohol in 100 millilitres of blood - less than the drink-drive limit of 80 milligrams.

"This was not an intoxicating level of alcohol," said Dr Dean.

He read statements from friends and Spanish police about the incident which happened between 1am and 3.30am on October 21 last year.

Mr Porter and his friends had met up with Michelle Clydesdale and her friends, who were staying at a different hotel in Salou.

They had a meal earlier in the evening and watched a football match before deciding to go for a swim.

One of the men, Ian Farrant, said in his statement how he had helped one of the other men out of the water after he got into difficulty.

They called out to Mr Porter and Miss Clydesdale, who had gone out further than the others, but got no reply.

Their bodies were later found further along the coast.

Michelle Clydesdale's death was dealt with through the Scottish legal system where inquests are not routinely held.

New challenge: Marina works out her route for the 300-mile ride through East Anglia to highlight the dangers posed to rural areas from development.

Cyclist off again to highlight wind farm fight

INTREPID cyclist 75-year-old Marina Voikhanskaya is pedalling off on another venture, this time a 300-mile trip around East Anglia, which will take in West Wrattling.

Dr Voikhanskaya has become well-known in Cambridge for her marathon bike rides.

In 2005, she accepted the challenge of a 500-mile trek through Essex, Berkshire, Oxfordshire, Gloucestershire, Staffordshire, Warwickshire, Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire, back to Cambridgeshire – to highlight the threat to rural areas from development and litter. Her aim was to raise money for the Campaign for the Protection of Rural England (CPRE).

This week she was due to start a seven-day marathon ride through Cambridgeshire, Norfolk and Suffolk.

Again, the journey will take her through areas where she believes rural beauty is threatened by development, or spoiled by roadside litter, and again her goal is to raise awareness and funds for the CPRE. She will cycle past the site of Wadlow Wind Farm at West Wrattling, where countryside campaigners have objected to 13 wind turbines, each 120 metres high being built.

In rural Suffolk, she will also go past potential development sites for power pylons, an incineration plant and another wind farm, before cycling to Norfolk.

There, she will pass sites destined for a new supermarket and housing.

She will return to Cambridge along the still unopened guided busway, starting in St Ives, where she said she is hoping to show the importance of "alternative commuting options".

Dr Voikhanskaya, a Cambridge psychiatrist, was born and brought up in St Petersburg, where she graduated from medical school.

She took up cycling at the age of 44, after leaving Russia to come to Britain as a political refugee.

Dr Voikhanskaya added: "I feel strongly that the countryside should be valued and protected for future generations to enjoy.

"The countryside needs help and protection because it is particularly vulnerable at present."

Anti-social report figures fall 11pc

A NEW survey of anti-social behaviour shows the number of incidents has fallen by more than 10 per cent across Suffolk – and police have been praised for how they tackle the problem.

The survey is contained in a report on anti-social behaviour published by Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary (HMIC), the independent body responsible for monitoring police performance.

It shows 74 per cent of people in Suffolk who have reported anti-social behaviour are satisfied with the service they received compared with the national average of 65 per cent.

The figures also show 61 per cent of people in Suffolk were satisfied with information provided to them after they called police and 58 per cent felt that their call made a difference to the problem.

BY JOHN DOWNING

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

The report says: "The survey showed significantly fewer of the anti-social behaviour victims in Suffolk felt it was a big problem in their area than the national average.

"In addition, the proportion of anti-social behaviour victims who felt it affected their daily routine was far lower than in most forces. This is a good result for the force."

The latest figures show anti-social behaviour has fallen across Suffolk by 11.7 per cent. There were 18,851 reported incidents between April 1 and September 20, compared to 21,337 for the same period last year.

Suffolk's Chief Constable Simon Ash said: "Suffolk is a safe county, which has relatively low levels of crime and anti-social behaviour compared to most other areas of the country.

"In this context, a fall of more than 10 per cent is a quite an achievement – and I think it demonstrates how our officers are working effectively with their colleagues from councils and other partner agencies to get to the root of the problems which most affect our local communities.

"It's also important to ensure we are listening and feeding back to the people who are its victims and report it to us.

"Overall, I think the report reflects how well the police and councils have joined together in a shared commitment to dealing with local issues, to improve quality of life for residents."

The report also found Safer Neighbourhood team officers work well with other agencies to tackle anti-social behaviour.

But it said more focus was needed on the service provided to repeat or vulnerable victims of anti-social behaviour.

Council divided over £10k cycleway costs

BY JOHN DOWNING

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

TOWN councillors were divided on a decision to provide £10,000 towards the cost of a new cycleway in Haverhill.

The town council's Community First Committee considered a request for funding towards the £80,000 scheme at a meeting on Tuesday.

Suffolk County Council has been working on a cycle network in the town and is considering a scheme to link Chivers Road to School Lane.

It sent a letter to the town council saying that "the bulk" of the cost would come from cycle network funds and, possibly, a grant from Sustrans.

And it asked if the town council would be prepared to contribute £10,000 towards the cost.

Cllr Mary Martin told the meeting: "The fact that they are prepared to give us this significant amount of money, I propose we should go ahead with it."

But Cllr Maureen Byrne said St Edmundsbury Borough Council should pay towards the cost.

She said: "I think it is totally unacceptable in this climate when we know there are going to be drastic cutbacks. We don't know what those cuts are going to be."

"The borough should pay the £10,000. There is already a walkway started off Chivers Road and it goes to nothing. They should invest in building that up."

She said the other councils should pay all the costs, even if it meant using their reserves.

Cllr Clive Turner said: "We need to move on this as quickly as possible."

"If we are not committing our small amount and we lose out on their large amount, we lose out on that investment."

Cllr Paul McManus said he supported more cycleways but said that the existing cycle network was not yet complete.

He said the town council needed more information on the proposals for Haverhill's cycle network before committing any funds.

He said: "We have to be prudent."

Cllr Mary Martin proposed that the decision on the £10,000 be deferred until more information was received from the county council and that was accepted.

Great-gran, 93, is on the Girls Night Out

WOMEN from Haverhill – led by a 93-year-old great-grandmother – helped St Nicholas Hospice Care raise more than ever from a night-time sponsored walk.

They were among 550 women who took part in the charity's Girls Night Out on Saturday evening. More than £87,000 is expected to be raised from the 11.2-mile around the moonlit streets of Bury St Edmunds.

Sophie Benson, 93, cut the ribbon to launch the walk before embarking on the trek herself with her granddaughter Gabrielle and her friend, Katherine Hodson.

All those taking part walked in pyjamas and dressing gowns.

Sophie, who took part in the fundraiser in tribute to the staff and volunteers who cared for her late husband Sydney, said: "When Gabrielle and I heard about Girls Night Out, we knew it was something we wanted to be part of. The hospice staff were so caring and lovely towards my husband and this is a way of saying thank you to them."

"And to make it even more special, my grand-daughter was with me – Sydney thought the world of her."

Mother-of-three Sophie, the oldest participant in the fundraiser, was pushed in her wheelchair by Gabrielle, 30, one of her seven grandchildren. She also has six great-grandchildren.

She was also joined by an impressive contingent from Haverhill including staff from the Arts Centre, paralympian wheelchair basketball player Caroline Maclean and town mayor Elaine McManus.

It is the second year the hospice has held the Girls Night Out walk with £60,000 raised last year.

Stores join in coffee event

HOMEMADE cakes made by the staff will be on offer at a Haverhill store as part of the World's Biggest Coffee Morning.

Manager Dawn Blunden and her team at Bon Marche, in the High Street, are supporting MacMillan Cancer Support's major fundraising event tomorrow.

They will hold a coffee morning and raffle in the store, selling slices of cake for 50p.

Staff at the Ipswich Building Society, also on the High Street, will be offering tea, coffee and home-made cakes to customers.

MacMillan Cancer Support improves the lives of people affected by cancer, providing practical, medical and financial support and campaigns for better cancer care, relying on voluntary donations for 99 per cent of its funding.

A £25 donation could pay for a MacMillan nurse for one hour, providing support and assistance to those with cancer.

The World's Biggest Coffee Morning, the charity's largest fundraising event, was first held in 1990. Last year the event raised £7.9 million, with more than 43,000 people registered to take part across the UK.

Showcase night for catering students

CATERING students will show off their cookery skills when they provide the buffet for the Haverhill Chamber of Commerce's open networking evening.

The students from Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College will be demonstrating the cuisine they prepare in the college's new Young Chamber-led enterprise, The Bistro.

The Bistro provides students with a realistic environment in which to develop their knowledge and skills in the business of catering.

The open networking evening is a chance for business people to come along, relax and network informally with other firms in Haverhill. The event takes place from 6pm to 8pm at the Days Inn on Monday.

Sarah Howard, chairman of Haverhill Chamber of Commerce, said: "This is an opportunity for the catering students at Castle Manor to show the excellent work and catering that they are being taught to provide at the college."

"I have tasted the food and it really is first class and comparable to professional catering companies."

"The open networking event is for both members and non-members of the chamber in Haverhill and the surrounding area."

The event is free for chamber members and £7.50 for non-members.

Places at the event must be booked in advance via the chambers website at www.suffolkchamber.co.uk/haverhillchamber

Vandal breaks wing mirror

A YOUTH caused £150 damage by smashing a car's mirror. The Renault Laguna was in Camps Road, Haverhill, when the youth, who was part of a group of around 10 young people, broke the mirror between 10.20pm and 10.35pm last Friday. The group then walked off towards the town centre. The youth is described as white, in his late teens, 6ft 2in tall, of slim build with dark hair and was wearing jeans, trainers and a grey jumper which had vomit on one arm. Anyone with information should call Pc Richard Baker at Haverhill Police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Glasses and tablets stolen

TWO pairs of glasses and a packet of painkillers were stolen from a car. The red Ford Fiesta was in a lay-by in The Causeway, Haverhill, between 9pm on Monday, September 13 and 4am the following day when thieves got in by "unknown means". The stolen property, which included a packet of Ibuprofen tablets, was worth around £200. Anyone with information should call Sgt Sarah Bartley at the Haverhill Safer Neighbourhood Team on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Fine for false rob claim man

A MAN has been given an £80 fixed penalty fine for wasting police time. He claimed he was robbed of his mobile phone but the report turned out to be false. The 20-year-old told police he had been robbed of a phone in Withersfield Road, Haverhill, just after 2am on Sunday, August 15. He told how he was assaulted and forced to hand over his phone when he was approached by two men. Police have now established that while the man was assaulted, his phone was not stolen and he has been given the fixed penalty fine.

Thieves take water pump

A PETROL-engined water pump worth £1,000 has been stolen from a container on a building site. Thieves forced the door of the container in Chalkstone Way, Haverhill, between 5pm last Thursday and 9am the following day before stealing the centrifugal pump. Anyone with information should call the Suffolk police Crime Investigation Bureau on (01473) 613500 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Fashionable way to draw in the boys . . .

A NEW fashion store has a unique centrepiece in its window display – a quad bike.

Monday was the first day of trading at @itude, a new designer menswear shop in High Street, Haverhill.

Phil Rushen, joint manager, said he hoped that selling brands such as Duck and Cover, Firetrap, Luke 1977 and Full Circle would attract young people in the town.

He said: "We felt Haverhill didn't really have a variety of clothing for men."

"Previously people have had to go shopping in Cambridge, and we wanted to bring the kinds of clothes you can buy there to Haverhill."

"We have been getting a lot of good feedback from everyone so far, which is nice to hear. It's been really positive so far, and we're hoping that people in the town will get behind us."

"The branded quad bike is a bit of a gimmick, and it's attracted a lot of attention already."

Police vow to crack down on bad behaviour

NEW policing priorities for Haverhill include tackling anti-social behaviour in Strassbourg Square on Friday and Saturday evenings.

At a recent community priority setting meeting, Haverhill Safer Neighbourhood Team (SNT) set another key aim as reducing anti-social behaviour at Aeroplane Park on Girton Road, also on Friday and Saturday evenings.

The third priority is to tackle anti-social behaviour in the area of the recreation ground involving youths littering, drinking alcohol and dogs not being kept under proper control during the daytime.

Inspector Chris Galley presented the key priorities at a meeting of the town council on Tuesday evening.

He said other issues will also be monitored, including parking problems outside schools, rubbish in Queen Street and speeding and inconsiderate driving.

BY JOHN DOWNING

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

He said priority setting meetings now take the form of a quarterly forum and the first of these was attended by about 25 residents.

Insp Galley said officers are also adopting a "street-a-week" approach where they knock on doors on a chosen street and talk to residents about their concerns.

Cllr Paul McManus said he was concerned about the level of dog fouling in the town and said some younger owners viewed certain types of dogs as a "status symbol" but did not control them properly.

He said: "There is an increase in dog ownership. Fouling is everywhere and it is dangerous."

There must be some means of curtailing it."

Insp Galley said police were looking into the problem of fouling in the area of the recreation ground.

He said policing levels will increase with the posting of a new officer to Haverhill and he is awaiting confirmation of an additional PCSO.

Front counter hours in Suffolk's police stations are under review but Insp Galley said he did not expect it would have an impact on Haverhill station.

He also praised the help his team had received from members of the Special Constabulary.

He said that customer service surveys showed 92 per cent of respondents were happy with the treatment they received from police.

The next meeting of the SNT is on December 9 but the venue is yet to be arranged.

Plea to look out for Lucy

RESIDENTS are being asked to help reunite an elderly woman with her much-loved cat.

Rosina Bradnam's cat, Lucy, was last seen near her home in Ladygate, Haverhill, on Saturday evening.

Residents have helped in the search and information has been posted in the neighbourhood but the wandering cat has not been located.

Lucy is a big cat, is about 9 years old and is pure black.

She does not have a collar or other identifying marks.

Do you recognise anyone in the picture or know what the event was? Do you know where and when it was taken?

Last week's Memories photograph, from our archives, showed a tiara presentation to Haverhill's Gala Queen. It was taken in June 1987.

Rachel Brown had no trouble remembering the picture – she was the crowned queen.

She said: "My Facebook page has been pinging constantly since your archive picture was published in the Weekly News."

"My name is now Rachel Brown, at the time it was Rachel Jennings and I was being crowned as the first Lions Gala Queen Haverhill had ever had. I opened the Lions Gala which was held on the recreation ground and, I think I was 12, possibly 13.

"We moved to Yorkshire the year after and I lost touch with a great deal of my friends until Facebook came along. I have a successful sales business in Merseyside working with many businesses across the world and people see me as just a business woman so to have that memory plastered across the internet has been wonderful.

"Thank you so much for bringing back a very treasured memory.

"Just for the record, this is how I look now." (below right) Laurie Gott also wrote in with memories of the photograph. He was president of Haverhill Lions and is pictured crowning Rachel.

He could also name others in the photo. They are, from left, Dennis Pool, Ron Cowper, John Wigmore and Mike Richards.

Thanks also to Dawn Morgan-Owen (nee Griffiths), who wrote in with memories of our picture on September 9 which showed a Grange Hill Drugs Campaign entitled 'Just Say No'.

The photograph was taken at Castle Manor School, Haverhill, in May, 1987.

She said: "During this time there was a big anti-drugs campaign going on in Grange Hill featuring Zammo and Jackie. They were then invited to our school (only Zammo turned up) to promote their campaign.

Send your answers to: Memories, Haverhill Weekly News, 4 Queen Street, Haverhill, CB9 9EF by Tuesday morning, or email editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

"In the photo are Julie Whiting and Philippa Ryan (holding the poster), along with other friends I know and recognise – Tracey Goodings, Nadine Blythe, Jackie Jefferies and Trudi Sergeant. I think I may have been hiding somewhere right at the back!

"It brought back fond memories of school friends and 80s hair!"

Free health checks to find patients at risk

HEALTH checks that could prevent heart attacks and strokes are being offered by the NHS to patients in West Essex.

Everyone aged between 40 and 74 can ask for a free health check as part of a national programme to identify their risk of diseases such as coronary heart disease, stroke, diabetes and kidney disease.

BY JOHN DOWNING

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

The health checks consist of questions to patients on their health and diet, exercise habits and family medical history, height and weight measurements, a blood test for cholesterol and glucose levels and recommendations on reducing risk.

Primary care trusts are designing their own local implementation plan to best suit the needs of the local population.

Helen Dear, senior health improvement specialist with NHS West Essex, said: "The NHS is becoming more personal and responsive to individual needs, becoming as good at prevention and keeping people healthy as it is at providing care and cures.

"The national programme of health checks could save 650 lives a year and reduce the health inequalities that blight the lives of the country's most deprived families."

Health checks are available at GP surgeries, health centres, walk-in centres and pharmacies to ensure as many people benefit from them as possible.

Have say on health issues

MEMBERS of the public are invited to attend the annual general meeting of NHS Suffolk.

There will be a report on its work over the last 12 months and plans for the coming year and beyond. There will also be an opportunity for people to have their say on any aspect of health and healthcare provision.

The AGM will take place at Wherstead Park, Wherstead, Ipswich, on Wednesday from 2pm-3.30pm.

Alastair McWhirter, chairman of NHS Suffolk said: "This is a great opportunity for members of the public to find out more about their NHS, to ask questions and learn more about the many successful health projects of the last year."

Pub quiz night in aid of cats

THE Fox and Hounds in Steeple Bumpstead will host a charity quiz night in aid of Cats Protection.

It will take place from 7.30pm on Sunday and costs £5, including a buffet. Teams of up to six are welcome.

Raffle prizes include meals for two from various pubs and restaurants.

To book a table contact Marion on (01440) 820357.

Out of the Blue gig for church

A CONCERT of music and readings will be held at St Mary's Church in Haverhill on Saturday.

Kings Taverners present Out of the Blue from 7.30pm.

Admission is by programme on the door which costs £5 and the price includes refreshments.

The proceeds of the evening will be in aid of the church.

New ward councillor

A NEW member has been co-opted onto Haverhill Town Council.

The Conservative party's Cllr Alison Snape was co-opted to fill the vacancy in the town's North ward.

The formalities were completed at a meeting of the town council on Tuesday evening.

U3A group's funding boost

THE Haverhill and district group of the University of the Third Age (U3A) has been given a £300 grant.

Haverhill Town Council agreed at its meeting on Tuesday to award the money to the U3A group to help towards the costs of speakers at its monthly meetings.

Super singers set sights on stardom

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Two singers have made it through to the regional finals of a national contest with a £30,000 top prize, as well as a recording contract.

Darren Smith, 29, and Jade Donno, 15, got the thumbs up at the Open Mic UK 2010 auditions and go forward to the next round to be held in Ipswich.

The contest is searching for the UK's best singers, singer/songwriters, rappers and vocalists of all genres who perform either covers or original material.

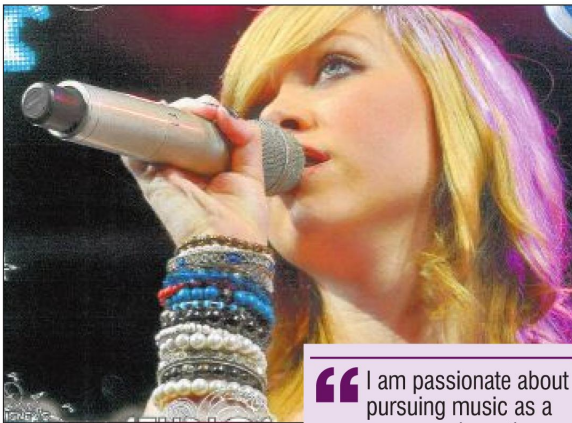

Darren, of Greys Lane, Barnardiston, sung a cover of the Bill Withers song, Lean on Me, in the first round of auditions in the over-25s category.

He said: "I am really excited. I've got a lot of support behind me and people coming to see me sing at the live show."

"There will be some nerves but I know how to calm myself down and really go for it."

Jade, from Sturmer, who is a Year 11 pupil at Gosfield School, said: "My mum says I was singing before I could even talk."

"I have attended part time stage school since the age of 4 and have performed in many shows as well as being a member of several bands. I am passionate about pursuing music as a career and see the Open Mic competition as a fantastic opportunity to help me realise my ambitions."

She is competing in the under 18s category and impressed the judges with her rendition of The Only Exception, by Paramour, at the auditions at the Ipswich Regent.

The pair will be competing against other hopefuls in a regional final at the Ipswich Corn Exchange on Saturday, October 23.

All the national winners in different categories will be invited on the Open Mic UK Tour which stages 100 gigs across the country.

Darren, who works for a media company, is being supported by

"I am passionate about pursuing music as a career and see the competition as a fantastic opportunity to help me realise my ambitions."

Jade Donno

wife Vicki and children Mia, 4, and Charlie, 10.

Chris Grayston, from promoters Future Music, said: "We are searching for an act that not only has the live ability to impress an audience and judges but has the potential to become a professional recording artist."

Tickets for the next round cost £7.50 and can be bought from www.openmicuk.co.uk

Finest music: Ylvali Zilliacus, from Sweden, was among the competitors in last year's contest.

Global soloists set to show off talent

BY JOHN DOWNING

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

MUSICIANS from around the world will converge on Haverhill for the town's 21st Sinfonia Soloist competition.

The competition started as a modest affair but has become a prestigious annual international event, which this year attracted 160 entrants of 39 nationalities.

From those, 25 musicians have been selected to compete and each will each perform a 20-minute programme of their own choice in a day which promises musical delights of the highest calibre.

The competitors' nationalities include Ukrainian, Bulgarian, Indonesian, Czech, Polish, American and British.

And three finalists this year are from East Anglia - Rosalind Ventress, Suzanne Thorn and Jonathan Radford.

The most popular category is the piano, with eight entrants, but music lovers can enjoy solo pieces on the cello, violin, clarinet, horn, flute, guitar, harp, oboe, saxophone and viola, along with one soprano.

The competition takes place on Saturday at the Haverhill Arts Centre between 9.30am and 8pm.

There are 38 prizes to the value of £8,800 on offer, along with 28 solo engagements throughout the UK.

A spokeswoman for organisers Haverhill Sinfonia said: "The competition is building up quite a reputation and we get people entering from all around the world."

The adjudicating panel will be: Kevin Hill, music director of Haverhill Sinfonia; Ronan O'Hara, head of keyboard studies and head of advanced performance studies, Guildhall School of Music and Drama; and Gary Ryan, assistant head of strings and professor of guitar, Royal College of Music.

All-day tickets, available at the door, cost £4 for adults, £2 for pensioners and students while admission is free for anyone aged 16 or under. They can also be bought from the box office on (01440) 714140.

Details of the competitors and the music they will perform are available at www.haverhillsinfonia.co.uk

The competition was devised to provide a public platform for talent which might otherwise go unheard and to give musicians the opportunity to acquire experience of solo performing, whether or not they envisaged a professional career.

Organisers said it is an exciting showcase for musicians and invitations are sent to orchestras, music societies, other promoters and agents to hear the array of talented performers.

Sponsors of this year's competition are Empire Pianos (Brain-tree), Evans-Pughe Strings of Hitchin, Glasswells, Haverhill Town Council, MachinePart Engineering, Marchant Manufacturing, Mrs Pat Taylor and Nicholas Jarman, Music Sales Group, Printwise (Haverhill), Rotary Club of Haverhill, STP Stationery and The Herbert Group.

Reminder to refresh first aid skills

FIRST aiders are being urged to take their annual update training courses or risk struggling to remember their skills in an emergency.

Suffolk St John Ambulance said the Health & Safety Executive recommends that first aiders attend a refresher course every 12 months.

Laws and best practice can also change, leaving people out of date with current methods.

But around 75 per cent forget to take their annual refresher course every year in the East of England.

Sue Skoyles, regional training manager for St John Ambulance, said: "St John Ambulance training courses are regarded as among the best in the business.

"It is important that first aiders brush up on their first aid knowledge every year to avoid what we call 'skills fade'.

"To be faced with an emergency situation and then struggle to remember your first aid training as it was so long ago can be a traumatic experience, and the difference between a life lost and a life saved.

"Around 150,000 people die every year because of a lack of a first aid so these really are important skills to have and to keep up to date."

St John Ambulance runs regular three-hour skills update courses.

For more details on training courses call 08700 104950 or visit www.sja.org.uk/training

Martial masters make the grade

MEMBERS of the Haverhill Tang Soo Do Korean martial arts club have been successful in their latest examination gradings.

They travelled to St Ives and were put through their paces in front of the 10th Dan Grand Master Lee Kang.

Craig Phillips, 2nd Dan instructor, said: "We had a few students from Haverhill's Do Jang put forward for grading.

"The students have been training very hard at both Tuesday and Thursday classes on their forms (Hyungs), fighting (Dae Ryun) and self-defence (Ho Sin Sul) in preparation for their grading examination.

"It has been very rewarding to see two brothers and a younger sister all grade at the same time.

"All the students put in a lot of effort and dedication in class. They all earned their new grades, showing the high standard that has been set in class."

The club meets at the Leiston Community Centre, Leiston Road on Tuesdays from 7pm and at Samuel Ward Arts and Technology College on Thursdays from 7pm.

The first lesson is free, just come along in loose clothing and bring some water.

Grading success: for members of the martial arts club.

1,000 arrests in CIB's first year

THE Crime Investigation Bureau (CIB) in Suffolk has reached its goal of 1,000 arrests in its first year in operation.

The CIB was set up in 2009, along with the Investigative Response Team (IRT).

The CIB records and investigates between 40 per cent and 50 per cent of all force crimes, which enables officers to spend more time dealing with urgent crimes and anti-social behaviour.

From January to August the CIB investigated around 12,800 crimes and currently holds around 400 live investigations. If a suspect is identified, an arrest pack with all the necessary documentation to initiate an arrest is passed to the local response sergeant for action. Since the CIB and IRT were launched it has reached its target of 1,000 arrest packs.

The CIB's Detective Inspector Bryan Harwood said: "I am delighted we have reached 1,000 crimes since the launch of the CIB where suspects have been identified for arrest for committing crime within Suffolk.

"The CIB and IRT continue to make a real difference to the way Suffolk is policed, releasing more and more uniformed officers to concentrate on their core role of attending urgent calls from the public and providing reassurance through greater visibility within their communities."

Detective Superintendent Phil Aves said: "It is clear this has been a success. As we reach the first full year of operations we can celebrate our 1,000th arrest package."

Smoke alarm saves woman's life

A WOMAN'S life was saved after a smoke detector warned her of a fire in her home.

The smoke detector had been fitted just 10 days earlier as part of a Suffolk County Council scheme called Homeshield Plus.

The woman was treated in hospital for smoke inhalation after the incident at her home in Lakenheath, according to Suffolk Fire and Rescue Service.

Paul Field, fire service community safety manager, said: "The lady in

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Lakenheath had been referred to us as part of the Homeshield Plus initiative.

"We were able to carry out a free home fire safety check and free smoke detectors were fitted as part of this process. This occurred just 10 days before the incident at her home and this is what most likely saved her life.

"This incident could have been much worse without the provision of a working smoke detector.

"We cannot emphasise enough the importance of fitting and maintaining smoke detectors in the home.

"If a fire occurs at night when occupants are sleeping it is likely that they will be overcome by toxic smoke.

"We don't want to add anyone else to our fatal statistics.

"Additionally the use of domestic sprinklers has increased in recent years and Suffolk Fire and Rescue Service recommend these are installed in domestic premises.

"The provision of a sprinkler system can detect and extinguish a fire in the very early stages, preventing the fire spreading causing injury and property damage.

"This is extremely useful in cases where occupiers may suffer mobility problems and are unable to escape the premises unaided."

To receive free fire safety advice, a home fire safety check or Homeshield Plus, call Suffolk Fire and Rescue Service on (01473) 260586 or (01473) 260588.

Former hostage looks back on months of mental torture

MEMOIRS: Robin Plummer

TRAPPED in a shadowy basement, staring at the bolted door in front of him, Robin Plummer was mired in despair. Held hostage in Libya, the Royston man had suffered months of mental torture: he'd been thrown into solitary confinement, interrogated at gunpoint, forced to witness brutal beatings . . . now the 33-year-old could feel the last rays of hope fading away – and his hard-kept grip on sanity starting to slide.

"Every time you take an emotional hit – every time you realise, yet again, that you're not going home – it pushes you further and further and further down, and then, one day, you realise you've reached rock bottom," explains Robin.

"I got to the point where I was literally seconds away from having a total mental breakdown: I was actually counting the seconds out loud, to stop myself from cracking.

"I've heard other people say they look back on being held hostage and it just feels like a bad dream. It doesn't feel that way to me. Even now, 25 years on, it feels very, very real."

BY ALICE RYAN

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Robin, now in his 50s, is about to publish a memoir of his time in captivity. Titled A Brush With Madness, it's set to hit bookstores this autumn.

"I started writing the book in 1990; it's taken me 20 years to finish it," says the father-of-four. "I can't say it's been an easy process.

"My wife says that, when I've been writing or talking about that time in my life, I'm completely unmanageable for three days afterwards. I didn't have an emotional response to it at the time, but now, all these years later, I do feel very emotional. There's no doubt it had a huge impact on me, and on the rest of my life."

At the time of his capture, in May 1984, Robin was working as an overseas engineer for BT. "I can remember being really excited about going to Libya," he reflects. "At the time it seemed like a great adventure . . ."

Robin, his wife and young children had been in Tripoli for little over a year when British relations with Libya took a sharp turn for the worse: first, four Libyan terrorists were arrested; then WPC Yvonne Fletcher was gunned down in London, while policing an anti-Gaddafi demo outside the Libyan Embassy.

Soon after, back in the Libyan capital, Robin was stopped for a minor traffic offence; within a matter of hours, armed men had arrived at his office, dragged him away for questioning and then locked him in a basement. "It took me three days to work out what was happening, to realise I was being held hostage: at first I kept telling myself it was all a mistake, that someone would come and rescue me," he says. "In fact it was a case of tit-for-tat: the British had arrested Libyan terrorists, so the Libyans arrested me. I was being used as a pawn in a very big game."

Robin had been on his way to a party when he took a wrong turning and was stopped by men wielding machine guns; before he knew what was happening, he'd been smacked in the face with a gun, hauled from the car by his hair and his all-important British ID taken. Although he was allowed to go free that night, come Monday morning more armed men arrived at his office – and so his nine-month incarceration began.

"I can still remember going into that basement for the first time: there was just enough light to read by, a rubber mattress, a couple of blankets," recounts Robin. "I had never felt so alone and hopeless in my whole life. I was shaking, I couldn't breathe properly... but, somehow, I forced myself to get a grip.

"I was determined to stay strong: they could have broken every bone in my body and I wouldn't even have told them my middle name."

Robin's strength of character had, he admits, already been severely tested as a younger man: "badly smashed up" in a road accident in his 20s, he almost lost a leg and spent five months in hospital. Thanks to a combination of treatment and his own gritty determination, he learned to walk again.

Kept in solitary confinement for 10 long weeks, even accompanied to the toilet by armed guards, Robin initially had no idea what was going on in the outside world. For Pat, his wife, and their three little children, it was a terrifying time: Pat was back home in Britain when Robin was captured – the first she heard of his arrest was a phone call from the British consul.

From that moment on, Pat toiled tirelessly for Robin's release, lobbying politicians – including Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher – and mounting a media campaign.

Memories: Top, being reunited with Pat, who later died. Above, how the Cambridge News reported his return home. Right: Robin during his captivity many tough times. In particular, he recalls a man being viciously beaten on the floor of the room above him. "It was as if they were letting me know what I was in for," he shudders. When the beating finally came to an end, the victim was brought into Robin's cell; black, blue and with broken legs, he was, says Robin, a pitiable and terrifying sight.

Gradually, more British hostages were taken. Robin says their arrival at the crumbling mansion, where he was imprisoned, helped save his sanity. "I can't tell you what a difference it made, just having someone there to look up and smile at occasionally," he says. "People don't understand how horrendous solitary confinement is: it's torture.

"The purpose of torture is to cause pain, isn't it? And solitary confinement is the worst thing you can do to anybody."

A critical moment came part-way through his imprisonment, when Robin was briefly left unguarded. There was, he explains, a fleeting opportunity to escape, to throw caution – and fears of being gunned-down in the attempt – to the wind.

"Which decision took more courage?" he ponders. "To go and risk getting shot – and lose my beautiful children their father? Or to stay and face who knew what? I thought of my children, I weighed it up and I went back to my room.

"No hero to me is he who gains honours by easy shedding of blood. The true hero is he who continues to function effectively whilst terrified out of his wits."

Over time, the hostages were afforded some comforts, including a radio, a bridge set and a supply of books (in total, Robin read 150 books during his internment). Robin received five precious letters from Pat, though none of his replies were ever sent.

Eventually, seven months into his ordeal, the Libyans conceded Robin and his fellow captives had committed no punishable offence and were, indeed, being held hostage. Negotiations for their release began in earnest – and special envoy Terry Waite, later taken hostage himself in Beirut, entered the fray. Pat was even able to visit Robin.

"The first we knew of our release was a snatch of news we picked up on the radio," he says. "The newsreader said: 'The hostages who've been held in Libya for almost nine months can expect to hear good news tomorrow'."

The captives were subsequently freed – and Robin arrived back on British soil on February 7, 1985. Walking off the plane at Gatwick, to be greeted by both his family and the world's press, was, Robin reflects, an amazing moment.

Robin admits that the events of 1984-5 put an incredible strain on his marriage to Pat. They later divorced and, tragically, she died in her 40s of multiple sclerosis.

But, ever determined, Robin went on to work overseas once more and run his own business. He has also remarried; he and Rachel have an 11-year-old daughter, Rhiannon.

"Writing this story wasn't easy, but it was something I felt I wanted to do," says Robin. "The experience has left its mark on me, yes, but I'm still here, I'm essentially unharmed and my children still have a father.

"Looking back on it all makes those facts seem all the more remarkable."

Autumn Car Checks...

Don't be caught off-guard

AUTUMN is a time of stunning scenery, bonfires and cosy knitwear – but for drivers, the nights drawing in should serve as a reminder to perform some basic check ups.

■ Falling leaves can have more of an impact on your car than you might think, as they can collect in 'plenum chambers', which is the tray-like area under the bonnet, just below the windscreen. This is where your car's heating system draws in air, but leaves can block this and cause them to fill with water and leak, and trapped water can cause the windows to mist up and impair visibility. It's definitely worth checking this area the next time you have your bonnet up for oil or water.

■ Autumn can also take its toll on car batteries as the first frost settles, but some basic maintenance can help to prolong battery life. The top of your battery must be clean and dry, and the whole thing must be mounted securely on its tray.

You can use a baking soda combined with water in order to avoid having corroded and loose battery clamps. If your battery is over three years old it's worth having it checked now to prevent a frustrating start to a cold morning.

■ Wipe your headlights clean before every journey to clear dirt and increase visibility, but you must also ensure they are aimed correctly. Check your fog lights are working properly before those misty mornings set in.

Driving over potholes can knock headlights out of position, so have these checked at a garage. While you're there,

Check-ups: Ensure that your car is in good working condition have your tires checked simultaneously, as even a top Formula One driver would struggle to drive in icy conditions with worn tyres.

The more tread on your tyres the better as it provides extra grip, but the legal tread depth minimum is 1.6mm. You also have to ensure that the tyres of your vehicle contain the proper amount of air pressure. Since they serve as your protective gear when the weather turns harsh, a regular check up for your car tires is an excellent idea, and properly inflated tires can cut down the number of times you fill up your petrol tank over a month. If you can afford it, autumn is in fact a great time to give your car a full service.

■ The best way to prevent windscreen washer fluid freezing is to use specialist windscreen washer fluid, readily available from most garage forecourts. This will ensure you are able to clean your windscreen when it gets dirty and maintain good visibility. Never use boiling water on windows as this may crack the glass.

■ Windscreen wipers are essential in clearing your view, particularly in winter when grit and salt is thrown from the road onto your windscreen. Check for cracks or splitting and replace if required. You probably haven't used your rear window heater all summer long, so switch it on and make sure that it is still working correctly. It pays to bear your own driving behaviour in mind as the seasons change, and to adapt your driving to the conditions. Always drive within your own – and your car's – limits.

■ Treat your car to a nice wash and wax. This isn't just so that it will look pristine – it will protect the paintwork from the cold weather conditions and salt that they use to keep the roads ice free, and will also make snow and ice slip off the car easily.

Finally, stock up on antifreeze and make sure your boot has a torch and blanket safely stored away, just in case.

Don't be Caught Out in the Cold...

Funding up for grabs to help worthy causes

OUR exciting new cash grant scheme is causing great interest among local charities.

Together with our sister paper, the Cambridge News, we have teamed up with Barclays Money Skills for the innovative project, which will distribute £15,000 to worthy causes.

Are you a member of a local charity? Do you need funds to purchase equipment or to help pay for a special event? If so, then you should apply by filling in the form on this page.

Alternatively, you can visit www.cambridge-news.co.uk to apply online – just look out for the Barclays Money Skills logo at the bottom of the homepage.

Barclays Money Skills helps people to make informed and impartial financial decisions, so we would encourage applicants to consider how they would use their funding to help people manage money.

This might be by involving your group in costing your project or by using the money more directly to help people to develop their money skills.

Once we have the appli-

ications, a shortlist of successful applicants will be drawn up. Our readers will then be able to help those charities receive grant funding from Barclays Money Skills by collecting tokens printed in the News.

About Barclays Money Skills

Marie-Claire Berreen, Barclays community investment manager for the Eastern region, said: "We are using our financial expertise to support people who need it most. This includes access to banking, skills to manage money, where to go for help if you are facing financial difficulties and building a secure financial future through enterprise."

To find out more, visit www.barclaysmoneyskills.co.uk

How it works

1. To apply for funding, fill in the application form, right, and send it to us – or visit www.cambridge-news.co.uk and click on the Barclays Money Skills logo to fill it out online.

2. Applications must be for costed projects and must come from registered charities. Please note the exclusions below.

3. All eligible applications will be considered, but as Barclays Money Skills is designed to help people in the UK increase their financial skills, don't forget to tell us if your project could help further this aim.

4. We'll draw up a shortlist of projects and we'll ask readers to show support by collecting tokens in the Cambridge News.

Scheme to keep children safe is hailed a success

A SEX offender was jailed for six months for having contact with a child as a result of a new scheme aimed at protecting children from paedophiles.

The Child Sex Offender Disclosure Process (CSODP) has been hailed a success a month after it was launched in Suffolk.

It allows parents, carers and guardians to make enquiries about people who are in contact with children.

The scheme comes under the banner 'Keeping Children Safe', with eight applications made so far.

Four have led to full disclosure, with one resulting in a 55-year-old registered sex offender given a six-month prison sentence.

In two cases, Suffolk police have worked closely with other forces where the mother and child concerned lived in a neighbouring county.

Det Chief Insp Stuart

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

McCallum, from the force's public protection directorate, said: "The scheme represents a valuable addition to existing child safeguarding measures and will enhance the efforts of all agencies and the public to keep children safe."

If individuals are found to have child sex offence convictions and pose a serious threat to a child, then information may be disclosed to the child's parent, carer or guardian.

Disclosure cannot be guaranteed in all cases, but the safeguarding of children will be the key-determining factor.

The timescale for the complete process is no more than 45 days.

Four police forces initially piloted the scheme in September 2008, with a further 20, including Suffolk, adopting the scheme in August.

Great showcase for sport and clubs

SCHOOL pupils and adults had a chance to find out about sports and clubs to join at an annual sports fair.

The event was held for the second year at Newmarket Leisure Centre.

Clubs taking part included Ipswich Town Football Club, Newmarket Avenue Bowls Club, Newmarket Cycling and Triathlon Club, Newmarket Joggers, and Newmarket Roller Skating Club.

More than 1,200 youngsters from all schools in the town had a chance to meet the clubs during the day before the fair was opened to the public.

The event was a joint venture between Sport Newmarket, Anglia Community Leisure, and Forest Heath School Sports Partnership.

Nigel Barber, chairman of Sport Newmarket, said: "People often like the idea of getting back into sport but they don't know where to start or what's on offer. This was a great showcase for Newmarket clubs to recruit new members and for everyone to find out more about a wide range of other leisure activities available in the Newmarket area."

Keiran Williams, community sports leader at the leisure centre, said: "The sports fair was hugely valuable because it has sparked an interest in sport that people can carry with them for life."

Busy night for fire crew

A FIRE on a patch of waste ground sparked a callout for Haverhill firefighters.

One crew from the town was called to Millfields Way at 6.45pm on Tuesday. The fire affected an area of grass of about five square metres.

The blaze was brought under control by 7pm.

Crews were called out a few hours later to reports of a fire in a wheelie bin.

One crew from the town went to Mill Road at 9.15pm and had the blaze under control within 15 minutes.

TV taken in burglary

A FLAT-screen television was stolen in a house burglary.

The Samsung TV was taken after a window was smashed at the house in Brockley Green, Hundon, between 8.30am and 1.25pm last Thursday.

Anyone with information should call Det Con Mike Chapman at West Suffolk CID on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555111.

An invitation to our Open Evenings

October 5th & 14th 2010

7pm - Main Hall

I would like to invite you to Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College Open Evenings.

On Tuesday 5th and Thursday 14th October 2010 we will be welcoming parents, future students and members of the public to visit us and find out more about our College.

In September 2011, students in Years 7 and 8 join our College for the first time. We will also be welcoming new Year 9 students. Our Open Evenings will give parents, carers, students and members of the local community an opportunity to meet with and talk to our wonderful students and outstanding staff.

The evenings will also provide you with the opportunity to ask any questions you may have prior to your child's transfer to the next phase of their learning.

Each evening will begin at 7pm with a presentation in the Main Hall at Castle Manor.

We look forward to welcoming you to our College on either evening.

Prisoner found guilty of slashing cell-mate

A PRISONER at Highpoint jail has been convicted of attacking a fellow inmate.

Monir Khalfi, 23, was convicted by a jury of wounding with intent to cause grievous bodily harm. But he was cleared of attempted murder.

He denied both charges.

The court heard that Khalfi slashed another prisoner, Barry White, across the face and neck on December 14.

White lost so much blood through the six-inch gash that his blood pressure was unrecordable.

The attack followed an incident in which Mr White was sweeping out his cell and a piece of rubbish fell from a balcony onto Khalfi who was standing below, the prosecution alleged.

Khalfi, who had been Mr White's neighbour in prison for the previous six weeks, was involved in a "verbal exchange" with Mr White before apparently apologising to him, the court heard.

The two men then shook hands but as he turned away Mr White felt something touch his face and realised that he had been cut, said Charles Myatt, prosecuting.

Khalfi had denied that he was involved in either an altercation with Mr White or the attack on him. He said another, unnamed, prisoner was responsible.

Khalfi will be sentenced at a later date after Judge John Devaux asked the probation service to prepare a pre-sentence report.

Drug-driver singer moves in POP star George Michael has been transferred to Highpoint Prison.

The former Wham! singer was moved out of Pentonville Prison last Friday after abandoning plans to apply for bail.

The 47-year-old, whose real name is Georgios Panayiotou, was jailed last week for eight weeks after crashing his Range Rover while high on cannabis.

Michael was found slumped at the wheel of his car after it smashed into a branch of Snappy Snaps in north London in July.

The singer, who had a previous conviction for the same offence, was told by District Judge John Perkins there was no option but jail.

He had admitted driving while unfit through drugs and possessing two cannabis cigarettes when he appeared at London's Highbury Corner Magistrates' Court last month.

REACH OUT: Natasha Burnett as the amazing Diana Ross, and right, she's a young Michael Jackson in the show.

Reach out for a night with Diana

TALENTED singer Natasha Burnett, who stars as Diana Ross in the Magic of Motown show, will be visiting Cambridge next week.

The versatile performer, it is revealed, has also been uncovered performing in the hit production as Michael Jackson.

The vocalist has been performing as a young Michael Jackson in the Jackson 5 section of the show. And renditions of smash hits like ABC, I'll Be There and I Want You Back have been so life-like audiences have not spotted that the hit Motown tribute show has a "my girl" playing a "my guy".

"Our production's Michael Jackson has had an unfair advantage when it comes to hitting the young Michael's famed high notes," says Magic of Motown producer Michael Taylor.

"We didn't feel the necessity to spoil the illusion and there hasn't been a murmur about it on the grapevine.

"In fact, Natasha's additional role to being the female lead would have remained our little secret – had a radio station not asked for an interview!"

Natasha recalls: "The first time I performed as Michael was on the night the world learnt he had passed away. We hastily rehearsed a version of Michael's Jackson's hit Ben as an extra-special tribute and it was decided I could hit the high notes better than any other member of the cast."

Michael Taylor says a cast of talented singers and real musicians is what sets The Magic of Motown apart from other shows.

"Our Michael Jackson tribute is a glowing example of how our show can respond and adapt to suit any audience and any situation," he says.

"Other productions can't present anything other than what's rehearsed. Our stars delight in interacting with the audience and adapting to please. No two shows are ever the same."

At 23, Natasha is ideally suited to portray Diana's meteoric rise from the most inauspicious of introductions to Britain to become an internationally-known megastar capable of filling stadiums worldwide.

Natasha has been treading the boards since the age of 15 and has had some success as an actress appearing in the film Children of Men – which stars Clive Owen and Michael Caine – and featuring in numerous telly adverts.

"Acting is good for the bank balance but my real passion is the theatre," says Natasha.

"The opportunity of performing with the Magic of Motown means I do what I love best week-in, week-out throughout the year."

Lead singer of a trio of girls in the Magic of Motown, Natasha joins talented male singers and an accomplished backing band.

"It's a job any girl would die for," says Natasha. "With 16 costume changes, I get to wear the most amazing frocks every night, and get paid for the privilege!"

Her vocals and appearance make her a dead ringer for Diana.

"Fortunately, I restrict my portrayal of Diana Ross to my on-stage performance," says Natasha, "so the guys need not be concerned that I have any diva tendencies... for the time being at least!"

As well as performing as Diana Ross, Natasha also portrays Martha Reeves, Gladys Knight, Mary Wells and the young Michael Jackson in the Magic of Motown.

The Magic of Motown - Reach Out show arrives at Cambridge Corn Exchange on Friday, October 1, at 8pm.

Tickets are £22.50 and £21.50. Call the box office on (01223) 357851. Visit www.cornex.co.uk www.easytheatres.com

Anniversary celebrated with first play

A LOCAL amateur dramatics society is celebrating its 75th anniversary with a mysterious offering.

Clare Amateur Dramatics Society (CADS) celebrates its 75th anniversary this year with the play, Gaslight, by Patrick Hamilton.

The play was the group's first performance in 1935.

It features Jack Manningham who is slowly driving his wife, Bella, insane. He has almost succeeded when former detective Rough arrives.

Rough believes Manningham to be a thief and murderer. Aided by Bella, Rough reveals Manningham's true identity and finally Bella achieves a few moments of sweet revenge for the suffering inflicted on her.

The play is directed by Carla Moore and will feature in an evening of celebrations by the society on Saturday at 7.30pm in Clare Town Hall.

Tickets are priced at £7.50, with a special offer for past and present members of just £5.

The ticket price also includes a cheese and wine supper.

Tickets can be purchased from CADS secretary, Michelle Allen on (01787) 278977, Orbell's Greengrocers, Market Hill, Clare or Hudgins Hardware, High Street, Clare.

CADS' chairman, Nick Rutter, said: "The society is very proud of reaching 75 years and we hope for many more.

"We're very much looking forward to welcoming back former members and sharing their memories as well as meeting some new members and taking the society forward."

Soloists tune up for contest with funny three to follow

Laughs aplenty: New Zealand's Jarred Christmas, above, will be among the stars at Monkey Nuts Comedy Club at the arts centre on Sunday. Guitar guru Bob Brozman, right, takes to the stage next week.

The UK's leading interpreters of Jimi Hendrix return to Haverhill tomorrow.

The Hamsters will take to the stage at Haverhill Arts Centre for a Hendrix 40th anniversary memorial concert. But first they'll be playing a set of their own brand of music – rock, blues and Americana.

Come along for an 8pm start.

■ It's that time of year again – the 21st Haverhill Sinfonia Soloist competition will take place at the arts centre on Saturday from 9.30am to 8pm. With 25 international musicians from 160 entries of 39 nationalities, each entrant will perform a 20-minute programme in this exciting and varied competition.

There are 38 prizes to the value of £8,800 to be won, plus 28 performances throughout the UK.

■ Some of the country's best funnymen line up for Monkey Nuts Comedy Club at the arts centre at 8pm on Sunday.

Get your chuckle muscles ready for Jimmy McGhie, who doles out charm and cheek in equal measure, salty and down to earth Sean Percival and Jarred Christmas, the comic from New Zealand who has recently appeared on Mock the Week, as well as shaking his booty on a Pot Noodle advert.

■ Chris Stanbury will be the guest of the Haverhill Keyboard Club on Tuesday with a programme consisting of all styles of music and catering for all tastes from classical through to jazz and pop. It starts at 7.30pm at the arts centre.

■ Guitarist Bob Brozman's wit, energy and musical technique combine to create an unforgettable and powerful live performance not to miss.

A master of slide, fingerstyle and percussive guitar, Brozman's exhilarating show at the arts centre will span the global and musical spectrum, and keep audiences enthralled and wanting more of his endearing, infectious energy.

Experience it for yourself on Thursday, September 30 at 8pm.

■ Over to arts centre cinema, the Reel Culture film Leaving (15), is showing on Monday at 7.45pm. It stars Kristin Scott Thomas as a bored housewife who decides to go back to work after growing tired of her monotonous life. A hot-blooded relationship that ultimately descends into violence and chaos promptly follows. French with English subtitles.

Director Alberto Cavalcanti's 1942 wartime drama Went The Day Well (PG), showing on Wednesday at 7.45pm, features German paratroopers disguised as British soldiers who take over a stereotypically sleepy English village to set up a radio station.

The Girl Who Played With Fire (15) is the second instalment of Stieg Larsson's hugely successful Millennium Trilogy and is showing on Friday, October 1 and Wednesday, October 6 at 7.45pm.

The big film

THE OTHER GUYS
certificate 12A 107m

IT has been almost four years since Will Ferrell starred in Stranger Than Fiction, and thankfully, the Saturday Night Live stalwart rediscovers some of his lustre in The Other Guys.

Directed and co-written by Adam McKay, who previously made Talladega Nights: The Ballad Of Ricky Bobby and Anchorman - The Legend Of Ron Burgundy, this intentionally ludicrous buddy cop movie pairs Ferrell with a hilariously self-mocking Mark Wahlberg.

Explosive action sequences collide with polished one-liners and some amusing supporting performances, like Michael Keaton as the beleaguered police chief, who works a second job to pay for his son's university education "so he can explore his bisexuality and become a DJ".

Detectives PK Highsmith (Samuel L Jackson) and Christopher Danson (Dwayne Johnson) are the golden boys of the NYPD, monopolising newspaper headlines with their gung-ho antics.

When the two officers are sidelined, hot-headed Terry Hoitz (Mark Wahlberg) and his mild-mannered partner Allen Gamble (Will Ferrell) vie with rival detectives Fosse (Damon Wayans Jr) and Martin (Rob Riggle) to lead the team.

"I'm a peacock. You've got to let me fly!" Terry implores Captain Gene Mauch (Michael Keaton), desperate to be included on a case involving multi-millionaire David Ershon (Steve Coogan).

When his pleas fall on deaf ears, Terry drags Allen into the field with only a wooden replica gun for protection. The Other Guys gets considerable mileage from several running jokes, including Terry's choice of car and his ability to pull insanely sexy women like his wife, Dr Sheila Gamble (Eva Mendes).

The plot careers along at breakneck speed, unchaining itself from plausibility early on with the sudden and unexpected exits of Jackson and Johnson. Gags hit more targets than they miss, which is a blessed relief.

Forcing the issue just in time for Christmas

WITH summer barely over, it hardly seems the right time to start thinking about Christmas – but if you want a splash of colour indoors during the festive season, now is the time to prepare forced bulbs in pots.

You can have a mass of colour and fragrance indoors in winter with deliciously scented hyacinths, hippeastrums, irises, grape hyacinths, snowdrops and miniature daffodils, which can all be forced to brighten up your home in winter.

Go to your garden centre now and look out for bulbs marked 'prepared', which are specially adapted to bloom earlier than usual.

Prepared bulbs have been given an artificial cold period for a number of weeks in conditions that imitate winter to speed up the natural flowering cycle.

For me, the hyacinth is probably the best bulb for forcing. Its fragrance will fill a room and the choice of colours available is vast, from white, to pink, red, deep purple and almost every hue in between.

by Hannah Stephenson

Bulbs should be planted in bowls filled with moist bulb fibre, close together so they are not quite touching one another, and with their growing tips just sticking out above the top of the compost. Don't firm the bulb fibre down or it may hinder the root system establishing quickly. Make sure you don't overwater them, especially if the container doesn't have drainage holes, or the bulbs will rot.

They should be placed in a cool, dark place such as the shed or a closed cupboard in a cold room, to encourage the flowering stems to develop before the leaves.

It also enables the root system to become well established. If the bulb fibre becomes dry at any time, water carefully between the bulbs.

The bowls should be left in the dark for around eight weeks, or until the new shoots are around 1-2in (4-5cm) high.

The flower buds which you can see between the tips of the leaves should just be starting to show signs of colour.

Once they have reached this shade they can be brought out into the light, but avoid putting them in direct sunlight.

They are best off in a cool room on a windowsill, but preferably not near a radiator. If you remove the bulbs too early the leaves will grow too quickly and will obscure the flowers.

While most hyacinths will stand up on their own, I tend to put pea sticks in the pots to support the heavy flowers, which otherwise may droop prematurely.

After flowering, the dead flowers should be cut off and then the bulbs can be planted outdoors and should flower after several years.

You can also force hyacinth bulbs in water, in special glasses designed to hold just one bulb, with its base at water level.

The bulb should be kept in a cool room and the water level kept topped up just below the bottom of the bulb.

You will see that it soon produces roots which grow down into the water.

When the flower buds start showing colour, move the bulb in its glass bowl into a warm, brightly lit room.

After flowering, you just throw the bulb away as it won't give you a good display in subsequent years.

Some daffodils, including Narcissus 'Paper White', can be grown indoors in bulb fibre in the same way as hyacinths, although they do need more light and once you bring them out of the dark they can immediately be placed on a sunny windowsill.

If you don't give them enough light, they may become too tall and will need staking.

Stick with the same varieties of hyacinths as some grow quicker than others.

Single varieties of bulbs such as snowdrops and dwarf narcissi also make more of a statement when planted en masse in pots.

When Christmas comes and colour and fragrance fills your home, you won't be sorry you made a little bit of effort with some prepared bulbs with autumn.

PREPARED BULBS: plant hyacinths now in time for some festive blooms.

BEST OF THE BUNCH - Sedum spectabile (Ice plant)

If you want to attract butterflies to your garden in late summer and autumn, look no further than the ice plant, a perennial which has pretty domed heads of pink flowers above thick, succulent leaves. Touch the leaves on a warm day and you'll find them cold, hence the common name of ice plant. They are easy to grow, like lots of sun and well-drained soil and will provide colour where everything else has faded. Good varieties include 'Autumn Joy', whose pink flowers last a long time.

Other good varieties include S. telephium 'Atropurpureum' or the purple-bronze S. 'Lynda et Rodney', a tall growing variety.

Agency takes on three staff under apprentice scheme

HAVERHILL lettings and estate agency CXG has received encouragement from George Osborne, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, after making use of the new coalition Government's Apprenticeship Scheme.

CXG has taken on two new employees and a third apprentice is due to start this month.

All CXG staff were impressed when the signed photograph was received after the directors of the company Robin and Daniel Pilley met George Osborne.

They discussed the business problems in the UK economy and what vital role small business can play in moving the country out of recession.

CXG directors were invited to Westminster last year by retiring MP Richard Spring to meet Martin Prisk MP who was shadow business minister.

This interest in the way government works has fascinated Robin ever since he once stood as a local councillor and has helped him to increasingly gain expertise in housing legislation that so many landlords steer clear of due to the inherent complexities.

CXG senior management were recently invited to a further reception at Westminster where they managed to talk to MPs Peter Hain, Alan Duncan, and Charles Kennedy.

"It was good to be able to talk informally," said Robin, "and to explain the work that CXG is doing in the field of providing accommodation for vulnerable tenants."

"We are hoping to follow this up with further meetings soon."

Also at the reception was Andrew Neil, former editor of The Sunday Times and presenter of This Week on BBC One.

The current Government legislation is confusing for most landlords, as well as tenants and agencies, so CXG is establishing a 'landlords club' to meet on an informal basis and listen to keynote speakers and enjoy some hospitality and networking.

The next event will take place on November 30. Contact CXG on (01440) 712216 for details.

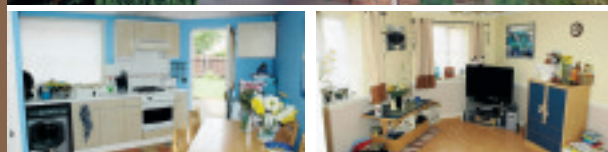

IN BUSINESS: Former MP Richard Spring meets CXG staff at their Haverhill office. The agency is taking on apprentice staff

YOUR GUIDE TO MOVING HOME

1 Moving home can be a complicated business and, in the hectic run to the big day, it is all too easy to forget something vital. The Property News offers their readers this handy checklist that should help avoid major pitfalls. We suggest you tick off the items as you deal with them...

WITH FOUR WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- ☐ Check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- ☐ Make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move.
- ☐ Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- ☐ Notify British Telecom and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone facilities at your new home.
- ☐ Arrange for change of address cards to be printed.

WITH TWO WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Confirm all arrangements, times etc, for meter readings, disconnections and reconnections, with authorities and with your buyer and seller.
- ☐ Make sure you have a good stock of packing materials, including sturdy boxes and plenty of string and sticky tape.
- ☐ Begin to throw out unwanted items from attics, wardrobes. What you really don't want you may as well dump now, or send to charity. It's a great time for a good sort out!

WITH ONE WEEK TO GO:

- ☐ Send off change of address cards.
- ☐ Arrange and pay for automatic redirection of your mail by the Post Office.
- ☐ Cancel and pay up accounts for routine delivery services such as milk, groceries, fuel and your Cambridge Evening News. Re-organise these deliveries for your new address.
- ☐ Defrost refrigerators in preparation for move and, if you are moving a freezer and its contents, turn it up to maximum for a couple of days before you move.

WITH ONE DAY TO GO:

- ☐ Complete your packing except for those items you are likely to need overnight, and prepare a picnic for moving day.
- ☐ Have a large enough cash 'float' available to deal with unexpected expenses, and make sure you have collected documents and valuables together in a safe place.
- ☐ Cover carpets which are being left behind, so as to minimise damage during furniture removal.
- ☐ Check through previous lists to make sure nothing has been overlooked, then enjoy a worry-free early night!

2 ON MOVING DAY:

- ☐ Strip beds and pack bedding and nightclothes.
- ☐ Pack items for washing/toiletries.

Focus ST on way

Latest smart fortwo is on sale

THE striking new generation smart fortwo, priced from £8,780 on the road, is now on sale.

A host of enhancements ensure the new smart is even more appealing than its acclaimed predecessor, providing significant improvements in style, comfort, CO2 emissions and equipment.

The unmistakable iconic looks of the smart are strengthened with the front and rear aprons, side skirts and filler cap now finished in body colour as standard. The pulse specification now benefits from new eye-catching 3-double-spoke alloy wheels and the Xclusive has stylish new Monoblock VII alloy wheels, while both pulse and passion can now be specified in the brighter shades of new light blue and matt light green colours.

In addition, the practicality of the coupé is heightened as it is now possible to open the car's rear lower tailgate using just one of its two release levers rather than both as previously.

A new upper dashboard design is the most striking interior change and the harmonious styling of the full fabric-covered instrument panel, which houses restyled dials, complements the improved fabric and colour designs available for the cockpit, seats and door centre panels.

All models now benefit from extra storage in the shape of a new glovebox design and useful net pockets on seat side bolsters. Both trim lines receive new steering wheel designs too, a 3-spoke leather sports wheel with modified seam stitching for the pulse and a 2-spoke leather item with matt chrome bezel for the comfort-themed passion.

The new generation smart continues to use the same cutting-edge engines as its predecessor, with the popular 71bhp micro hybrid drive petrol unit fitted with softip transmission now emitting just 97g/km CO2 – an improvement of 6g/km. This development means the most popular petrol and diesel engines in the smart range now fall below 100g/km CO2. The emissions of the Xclusive are also lowered to 119g/km and a 7bhp increase sees the stunning flagship model now produce 102bhp and sprint from 0-62mph in 8.9 seconds – a whole second quicker than before.

The whole smart range now emits less than 120g/km CO2, which makes all models exempt from the cost of the annual road fund licence for at least the first year from registration.

247bhp Ford set for debut at upcoming Paris Motor Show

THE future is fast – and orange – for Ford.

The Blue Oval will be showing its spanking new performance Focus, the ST, at the Paris Motor Show at the end of September, clad in a dramatic new body colour, Tangerine Scream.

Under the hood is a 247bhp version of Ford's 2.0-litre EcoBoost four-cylinder petrol engine, and Fast Ford fans can expect to see the car in the UK around next April.

The Ford Focus ST: Stunning.

George Michael: Meds warning

Advice comes too late for George, but not for you

AS George Michael is jailed for driving under the influence of a cocktail of illegal and prescription drugs, many more drivers could be putting themselves and others at risk by failing to recognise the importance of adhering to prescription drug warnings.

According to a poll, one in 10 drivers has admitted their ability to drive was impaired after taking medication, while 3 per cent actually admitted to having had an accident or near miss when driving under the influence of prescription or over-the-counter drugs.

12 per cent of all those questioned also admitted to not realising they could be breaking the law if they drive while affected, with almost a third of people saying they regularly take medicines and drive.

The poll of drivers carried out by road safety expert GEM Motoring Assist, has led them to develop a new leaflet to raise awareness of the issues associated with driving while affected by prescription medicines.

The leaflet, which is supported by the resident GP of ITV's This Morning, Dr Chris Steele MBE, answers questions and offers guidance on being aware of how medication can affect our driving and that it is actually illegal to drive when taking certain medicines.

To view and download a copy of the leaflet, visit www.motoringassist.com/motoringmeds or for a free printed copy telephone GEM Motoring Assist directly on (01342) 825676.

New Mini ahead by a country mile

LAST weekend saw the launch of Mini's latest and largest model, and the first to offer four-wheel drive to the UK market.

The Mini Countryman range is the fourth member of the Mini family following Hatch, Convertible and Clubman.

It means that Mini owners who love the brand no longer need move to another make when they need more space in their car.

The Mini Countryman is available in five models, three of which offer ALL4; Mini's new four-wheel drive option.

The Mini Countryman is all about comfort, practicality and innovative style. From the four wide-opening doors to the high-opening rear hatch, it is easy and comfortable to get into and out of, and a dream to load.

The additional boot space of 350 litres is more than double that of the Hatch and 90 litres more than the Clubman offers. With the rear seats folded flat the interior provides no less than 1,170 litres of load space.

"The Countryman models still pack in the driving thrills that put a grin on your face the way all Minis do," said Grahame Downer, Elms Cambridge Mini brand manager.

"But the Countryman also brings new levels of space and versatility to the range that will attract not only existing Mini owners but also new customers.

"We expect that the extra space will mean that around 80 per cent of Countryman sales will come from customers completely new to the Mini brand."

The demand for crossover vehicles has grown substantially recently: drivers want the best of both worlds with normal saloon-like driving responses as well as the added versatility of soft off-road ability and the interior flexibility to cope with all the hobbies, shopping trips and activities that are a huge part of the typical busy modern family life.

As a result, Mini Countryman arrives in a growing segment that presents an opportunity to attract buyers from a wide range of competitive cars.

Not only will they find the flexibility their lifestyle demands but they will also discover the world of Mini, a world where practicality and versatility does not bring limitations on the fun that can be derived from driving.

With Countryman prices starting from £16,000 and a very high standard specification, there will definitely be more Mini piquancy in the crossover market this year.

Galaxy retains title

THE Ford Galaxy was declared best MPV by Professional Driver magazine, representing Britain's private hire, chauffeur and limousine businesses.

Announcing the second win in succession for Galaxy, editor Mark Bursa said: "Ford Galaxy seemed unassailable in the MPV category of the Professional Driver Car of the Year awards.

"A raft of upgrades and improvements this year have made Galaxy more upmarket and it drives superbly thanks to an excellent automatic transmission. Galaxy's all-round competence keeps it ahead of the field."

The Ford Galaxy accounts for 60 per cent of large MPVs sold in the UK, outselling its nearest competitor by six to one. Its Professional Driver recognition follows similar success in this year's awards by BusinessCar magazine, which made Galaxy best MPV for the fourth year running.

CITROËN'S DS3 is to appear in the music video for the brand new single Broken Arrow by English singer-songwriter and global pop sensation, Pixie Lott. The partnership will be a UK first for vehicle product placement in a music video.

Directed by Gregg Masuak, the video follows Pixie in romantic scenes, both past and present, encountering lost loves and new relationships.

Out on October 11, the single is a new track from the re-released version of Pixie's multi-platinum 2009 debut album, Turn It Up, which has sold 600,000 copies in the UK alone.

The attention-grabbing DS3 is the first model in Citroën's distinctively styled DS line.

Trials: The Audi A1 e-tron, a 148.7mpg electric vehicle, has a power output equivalent to 100bhp

Performance tests for Audi A1 e-tron

THE first six months of Mini's electric vehicle (EV) trial is now up, and the figures don't come up with anything too startling – and, as expected, show that not all trips could be made in the pioneering Mini E.

Long journeys, or trips where more load space was needed, were all out for the limited-range Mini E, which is a two-seater.

Meanwhile, Audi intends to put 20 of its A1 EV models, the e-tron, on trial in Munich, Germany, by the middle of next year to evaluate its performance.

Munich's electricity supply is about to spark 20 road-ready Audi A1 e-trons into life on the German city's streets as part of an exciting pilot project undertaken by Audi AG in partnership with E.ON, the Munich municipal utility company Stadtwerke München (SWM) and the Technical University of Munich (TUM).

Delivering an output equivalent to 100bhp, the lithium-ion battery mounted within the floor assembly in front of the rear axle of the A1 e-tron powers it to a top speed of 81mph and gives it a range of more than 31 miles in city traffic.

From start-up it is classified as a zero emissions vehicle over this distance.

A compact internal combustion engine recharges the battery when its energy is depleted.

A small, single-rotor Wankel engine in this near-series production vehicle increases the range in exceptional circumstances. This "range extender" powers a generator that produces 15kW of charging power.

If the range extender is used to recharge the battery, the A1 e-tron can cover an additional 124 miles.

According to a draft standard for the calculation of fuel consumption for range extender vehicles, this represents a fuel economy figure of 148.7mpg, equating to a CO2 output of only 45g/km.

All 20 examples of the innovative battery-powered "Mega City Vehicle" (MCV) will be operational by mid-2011.

Four-year lease deal for iOn

PEUGEOT is ready to launch its iOn on an "all-inclusive" mobility offer consisting of a four-year contract.

On a four-year, 40,000 mile contract the monthly payment will be £415 excluding VAT, which includes the lease of the vehicle (battery pack considered part of the vehicle); full warranty cover for the vehicle, battery and electric power train for the period of the lease; full servicing and full maintenance for four years and 40,000 miles, plus Peugeot Connect Services.

Average running costs are estimated at £2.50 per 120 miles. See www.peugeot.co.uk/ion.

Great results as article drives sales

"FANTASTIC, unbelievable" – Simon Walters, who set up Cambridge Valet Centre last month, is speaking about the response to the firm's services – and the queue that formed when an article appeared in drive, in the Weekly News' sister paper, the Cambridge News.

"If you'd approached me and tried to sell me this I'd have told you to go away – you'd never expect to get that sort of impact from a single article.

"On the morning the paper came out there was a bloke here at 8am waiting for us to open and the phone was ringing off the hook for at least four or five days and continued to ring for two or three weeks – and it's still going. They're all saying they read it in the paper."

It wasn't just the print edition that found an eager market of drivers who wanted their pride and joy spruced up by Simon's team of enthusiastic professionals either – the website also recorded a 400 per cent increase in traffic.

"In the two weeks prior to the article the site recorded 90 hits – that went up to 410 hits in the week after the link appeared on the News' website."

Cambridge Valet Centre has hit a spot because Simon is able to provide a dedicated and highly professional service which resolves all sorts of issues, from stone chips to coffee stains, from paint correction to chewing gum removal.

Simon also operates a mobile unit – www.crystalvaleting.com – for those who want a personal visit. Call-out prices start at £25.

Meanwhile, stand by for news of a ladies-only event in the first two weeks of October. Or check the website at www.cambridgevaletcentre.com.

To reach our incredible – and incredibly loyal – readership email motoring@cambridge-news.co.uk – or phone (01223) 434225 if you want to find out about how to advertise in the Cambridge News and Weekly News motoring pages.

Advertising Sales Team Leader

Basic Salary £17,000 - £18,000 per annum, plus Mini Cooper
(with realistic bonus structure offering the opportunity to earn £20 - £25K pa)

LSN Media is an innovative and progressive publisher of regional newspapers and websites across Beds and Bucks. We're part of a growing business called Iliffe News & Media Ltd that publishes newspapers, magazines and websites across Cambs, Herts, Essex and Staffs, and we now have a vacancy for an experienced advertising sales person to lead our Field Sales team in Bedford.

We're looking for a positive and pro-active person to fill this key role. A successful media sales person with a proven track record is required to help manage, motivate and inspire our sales team. You'll need to be hardworking, enthusiastic and have a passion for delivering excellent customer service. You'll also need to lead by example and develop key advertising accounts of your own, whilst helping your team to develop their territories to increase our overall market share. Knowledge or experience of selling to ROP, Property and Internet customers would also be an advantage.

This position would suit either, an experienced media sales executive with the qualities and ambition to develop into a managerial role, or a person currently in a supervisory/junior management position looking for a new and challenging role in a growing market.

We offer all of the usual benefits you would expect from one of the country's leading publishers and the opportunities for further career progression within LSN Media and Iliffe News & Media are excellent. Appropriate and regular training is also offered to all staff.

If this sounds like the right move for you, please send your cv to:
Samantha Thompson, Commercial Manager, Bedfordshire on Sunday,
22 Mill Street, Bedford MK40 3HD or preferably email samantha.thompson@LSNMedia.co.uk
Closing date for applications is Friday 1st October 2010.

Your CV

When you send your CV off to a potential employer, remember that you won't be the only one. Hundreds of other people could be applying for the job as well.

So what are you going to do to make you stand out from the crowd? Why should an employer take a chance on you instead of someone else?

Your CV is your first real chance to sell yourself to a potential employer. Most employers will scan through a CV in about 30 seconds so you need to grab their attention from the start - and make them want to invite you for an interview.

There are five main areas to consider when writing your CV:

- Make sure your CV looks the part. Your CV should look clean and tidy - don't scrawl it out on a piece of A4 paper. If you haven't got access to a PC or printer, ask a friend or use your local library. Use a good quality paper and steer clear of fancy borders and front covers.

- Watch out for silly spelling and grammar mistakes. They make you look lazy and show employers that you don't really care. It's not difficult to do a spell check on your PC and if you're really stuck then don't just guess, reach for a dictionary. Get a friend to read through your CV for you - a second opinion is always useful.

- Make sure your CV is well organised. When you list your previous jobs, make sure the dates are correct and try not to leave any gaps. If you took time out to go travelling then say so - employers won't mark you down just because you've tried something new.

- Don't waffle. Remember that employers don't have time to read every word of your CV. Long paragraphs and sentences put people off, so try bullet-points to break up text. Make sure your CV is no longer than two pages long - employers don't want your life history, they just want to see that you've got what it takes to do the job.

- Don't list any failures. Employers have enough trouble finding someone who is right for the job - they don't need help finding reasons not to employ you. If you have to include a mistake from your past, make sure you show the employer that you learnt something from the experience.

Keep it simple

Personal details

Start off with your full name, address, date of birth, home and mobile phone numbers, email address and nationality. If you are offered an interview, the employer will want to get hold of you so give him as many options as possible.

Summary/professional profile

This is the No1 area for selling yourself. Set out your main skills and personal qualities but keep it interesting and tight - one paragraph should do to cover everything.

Education and qualifications

List your qualifications and education history, with the most recent first. You don't need to list the grades for each exam you have passed unless they were exceptional results - simply listing the number and type of exams you've passed is fine. Also, list any relevant professional organisations you belong to and training courses you have been on.

Work experience

Start with your most recent position and work backwards, giving addresses along with start and finish dates. Set out your main responsibilities, duties and most importantly achievements, along with any skills you picked up or improvements you made while you were there. This is a really important section in your CV so make it count - but don't waffle.

If you have not had a full-time job before, detail any part-time jobs you may have held or any placement you have been on.

Other skills

Set out any computer skills you may have and the software you are most familiar with. Can you type, do shorthand or speak a foreign language fluently? If you have a driving licence, let the employer know. If it's clean, tell them.

Interests & hobbies

Briefly list what you get up to in your spare time. Put down any positions you hold in clubs or associations, along with any responsibilities and achievements.

References

Make sure you have at least two people (including one from your previous or current job) who will tell an employer what a thoroughly nice person you are and what a potential asset to the company you would be.

If you want to list them now make sure you include their name, job title, postal & e-mail address and contact phone numbers. Alternatively, just put "Available on request" so the employer knows to follow up references at a later date.

Add a covering letter

The main aim of a covering letter is to encourage an employer to give you a chance. You want them to read your CV, so sell it to them. You should always enclose a covering letter when applying for a job - most employers won't consider you unless you do.

A covering letter should let the employer know why you are interested in the job and why you think you can do it.

The hints and tips below should point you in the right direction:

- Keep it simple. A covering letter should be short and to the point - no more than six paragraphs.
- Mention the job. If you are replying to an advert, mention what the job is and where you saw it. The company may be advertising for other positions and it may not be clear which job you are applying for.
- Sell yourself. Explain why you are the perfect candidate for the job. Show off your strengths and experience. Refer to your CV - if it goes missing then at least an employer will know that you've sent it.
- Check it for mistakes. A silly spelling mistake in a covering letter is likely to cost you your chance of getting an interview. Also, make sure it is addressed to the right person in the right department.

A covering letter can be just as important as a CV in getting you an interview. It's your first point of contact with your potential employer - so make it count.

>> Football: Junior league round-up

Reds are in the Pink

Chatteris 1 West Watting 2

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-15

TOM Pinker converted two deadly free kicks in a thrilling last quarter of an hour to finally overturn Chatteris and give West Watting the points. The home side took an early lead and then defended doggedly as the Reds, sponsored by the Safebox.co.uk, turned the screw, fuelled by the frustration of having a penalty appeal waved aside. Soon after man of the match Kieran O'Neill hit the post with a searing drive, Zak Ollington was fouled and Pinker fired the equaliser. And then in the final minutes, Pinker curled in the winner after O'Neill was brought down.

Haverhill Row 6 Chatteris Tn 2

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-12C

BILLY Campbell scored a hat-trick as Haverhill Rovers bounced back from an early goal to cruise to victory. He scored the first two to put Rovers ahead by the break, and they went on to dominate in the second half with goals from Billy Jarvis (2) and Jayden Bayford, who had three goals disallowed before getting one to count. Campbell completed his hat-trick with a thumping free-kick.

Haverhill Rovers 11 Saffron Walden 1

S-Tech Cambs Girls League, under-16
HAVERHILL Rovers made a sparkling debut at the New Croft, crushing Walden in their first game at the new ground.

Stacey Roper led the blitz with five goals as Rovers ripped into their rivals from the start, tearing the visitors' defence apart to go into half time 7-1 ahead.

Charlotte Westrope (2), Katie Schulz (2), Chloe Ellis and Alisha Jenkins completed the scoring. Haverhill Rovers 1 Teversham 3 Cambridge and District Colts League, under-13 A

AN early-season injury problem left Haverhill down to the bare bones for the clash against last season's divisional champions. Rovers made a sluggish start and only really started to get a foothold in the game inside the last 20 minutes when Leon Bailey fired home.

However, Jack Trowbridge was unlucky not to make the final few minutes really interesting when his shot just cleared the bar.

Thurlow 3 Whittleford Warriors 1

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-14C

AFTER controlling long periods of the game, Thurlow racked up their first opening day win for two seasons.

They sealed the points with good flowing football and self belief, something missing for much of last season.

They opened the scoring with the pick of their three goals, Mason Iron's superb lob paving the way for further goals from Ryan Mule (penalty) and Jordan Ryan. Ashley Botten's tigerish performance in midfield earned him the nod as man of the match.

Kedington 4 Walpole Warriors 0

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-13C

SOMETHING had to give when the section's two unbeaten teams met – and fortunately it was the visitors' record. After a series of speculative long shots, the deadlock was finally broken when Tye Alleyne reacted smartly to tuck away a rebound from Conor Ranking's shot.

He went on to complete a hat-trick, tucking in Jason Moore's pass and then pouncing on Ranking's long throw. Cameron Larkin completed the scoring, turning in Alleyne's late cross. Withersfield 3 Saffron Walden 7 Cambridge and District Colts League, under-14A

THE taller Walden side gave Withersfield problems throughout and ultimately condemned the home side to their second consecutive heavy defeat. Joe Baker's delightful lob over the keeper made it 2-1 and Mitchell Burr, earlier denied by a good save by the keeper, reduced the arrears to 4-2.

When Oliver Stevenson scrambled in a third it looked as if Withersfield were on the verge of a stunning comeback. But Walden regrouped and stormed to a well-deserved win.

Somersham Town 1 West Watting 5

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-14B

WEST Watting are settling nicely into life at a higher level, easing to a well-deserved win at Somersham.

Their one-touch style was too much for the home side, who were never able to break through a defence marshalled by man-of-the-match Lewis Massie. Ryan Cooper grabbed two well-taken goals, Earle Lambert scored his first goal of the season, and Robert Foster's cheeky backheel, and Ben Murray's 30-yard screamer earned the points.

Burwell Tigers 2 West Watting 5

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-13C

AFTER a see-saw first half, West Watting finally got to grips with the game and finished clear winners. Burwell took the lead inside two minutes, but Charlie Ellam and Jesse Luff put the visitors back on track only for Tigers to level before half time. However, after the break, Keaton Dial pounced in a goalmouth scramble to put Watting ahead and when Ellam was fouled, Charlie Ripp converted the penalty to give his side beathing space. Jack Harvey completed the scoring with a well-placed free kick.

Fulbourn 1 Aztecs 8

Cambs 9v9 League, under-12C

TOBY Goodship scored four and Tyler Thurgood completed a hat-trick as Aztecs started their league campaign with a comfortable win. The pair dominated the scoring after Luke Wood tucked away the rebound from Goodship's shot to open the scoring.

Craig's a cut above rest to get point

Histon res 2 Haverhill Rov 2

Ridgions League, Premier Division
CRAIG Cutts struck a late equaliser to secure a point at the Glass World Stadium on Wednesday.

Dalton O'Brien had scored their first leveller – against his former club – but then had to go off with an ankle injury in the 25th minute.

And manager Peter Betts said, although the draw was a fair result, but the outcome would have been different but for the injury.

"If he'd been able to stay on the pitch I think we would have won," he said. "We didn't defend as well as we have done. We've been really strong in the full-back areas but we lacked a bit of pace.

"But the most important thing is we've now gone three away games without losing.

"You never know what you're going to get from Histon but we've managed to go away from home and pick up a point." Haverhill are at home to Kirkley & Pakefield in the league on Saturday.

Haverhill Rov 3 Debenham LC 0

FA Vase, second qualifying rnd

NOT even the dismissal of Sam Holmes could stop Haverhill from recording a comfortable win over Debenham.

Stuart Kingham latched on to Marc Abbott's free kick to open the scoring after just 85 seconds.

In the 27th minute Jack Higgs' delivery found Holmes at the near post, and he made it 2-0.

Holmes was sent off in the 36th minute for picking up a second yellow card, but Rovers continued to dominate and with eight minutes remaining, Abbott was brought down in the area and Stuart Wardley scored the resulting penalty.

Haverhill are run ragged

Haverhill 3 Cantabs 60

Greene King IPA Eastern Counties League One

CANTABRIGIAN shared their tries around with nine different scorers in their thumping win over Haverhill.

It took them 18 minutes to score their first try, and they were leading only 20-0 at half time, but Cantabs' superior fitness told after the break and the floodgates opened.

Richard Ford, John Perks, Dean James, debutant winger Ewan Wilder, James McCraughen, Sammy Kididromo, Warren Cowan, Nick Meyer and Ali McCormick were the try-scorers, while Chris Lovett kicked six conversions and one penalty.

Kieran Evens kicked Haverhill's penalty and stand-in skipper Paul Bergin said: "They did wear us down. It's been a tough start and we have an awful lot of lessons to learn.

"We have the chance of being competitive with a settled side, which we've not had yet this season.

"We had some periods where we played well and looked very competitive."

Cantabs' skipper Chris Walliker said: "When we played our game-plan, we scored tries quite easily.

"The first 20 minutes they battled it out, but we were better than them, which told as the game wore on. Our fitness told and that was when we really ripped them apart."

He ain't heavy . . . : Haverhill's Adam Curtis about to get a helping hand from giant-sized Martin Ransome during the defeat by Cantabs.

Paffett's held up, but fightback keeps him on title trail

GARY Paffett produced a stirring comeback in the German Touring Car Masters (DTM) at Oschersleben to keep his championship hopes alive.

The Haverhill-based driver qualified his Salzgitter Mercedes-Benz in 10th place but moved up the field from the start and after 33 laps was fifth. A puncture for Timo Scheider moved him into fourth but despite a close battle with Mattias Ekstrom for third place, he was unable to get past him for a place on the podium.

Paul Di Resta won the race with championship leader Bruno Spengler second. "Considering the qualifying position, I'm really pleased with the result," said Paffett, who is third in the championship, 16 points behind Spengler and nine behind Di Resta.

"The aim was to make up as many positions as possible during the race and therefore limit the number of points that my championship rivals Spengler and Di Resta could take."
